FLANKED BY EMPTY CHAIRS the main speaker at last night's rescue squad organization meeting puts across a point to the 21 men who attended. Squad is designed to act in all emergencies in which it is needed; would have specially-trained personnel. Organization efforts will continue during coming weeks; foundation was set up last night.

Initial Steps Taken To Form Emergency Rescue Squad In County On Volunteer Basis

THE FIRST OF A SERIES of meetings working toward establishment of a volunteer county-wide emergency rescue squad was held last night.

Representatives of 14 organizations attended the meeting at the YMCA building in Stroudsburg. George Ott was in charge of the conference.

Ott explained the basic need for an emergency rescue squad in the light of last August's disastrous flood in the area. He emphasized that such an organization would work with all other existing official and semi-official groups in the county.

One aim of last night's meeting was to set up a "board of control." The group failed to do this, however. Most of those attending the meeting expressed the opinion that Ott should carry out a membership drive, recruit workers, then set up the control board which would in turn, establish training projects for workers.

Eisenhower To Address Ike Rallies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower will address "Salute to Eisenhower" Republican rallies throughout the country Friday night—his first political speech since his September heart attack.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said in announcing this today that he does not look for the President to disclose then whether he will seek reelection.

The rallies are to mark the third anniversary of Eisenhower's becoming president—and to raise money for the GOP.

The President may address the $100-a-plate dinner rally here in person, with his remarks carried to similar fund raising affairs in other cities by closed circuit television and radio.

May Not Attend Dinner

Or he may not attend the Washington dinner, but speak to the rallies from the White House.

In any event, Hagerty said, radio and television networks will be permitted to pick up the 8 to 10 minute speech and carry it on a live basis to the country generally. They may also film and record it for later transmission, he said.

Republican sources on Capitol Hill reported White House aides were anxious to have the speech broadcast as widely as possible, while the GOP National Committee had favored a closed circuit performance.

The committee has been selling tickets to the dinners with the understanding that Eisenhower's talk could be heard only there.

Committee officials said two Republican senators who asked not to be named had been contending that any general broadcast by the President would hurt their dinner seat sales. The committee hopes to raise several million dollars through the rallies.

Ike Clubs Activated

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—A group close to President Eisenhower re-activated the "Citizens for Eisenhower" today with a statement they are convinced he will seek a second term if his health allows.

Retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, an intimate of Eisenhower, joined the other organizers in declaring in a letter to 50,000 former "Citizens" workers:

"We are convinced that the President will consider it his duty to serve a second term, provided he finds that his health will permit him to carry the load."

Signing the letter with Clay were Mrs. Ovetta Culp Hobby, former secretary of health, education and welfare, and Sidney J. Weinberg, New York financier.

Eisenhower's final physical checkup before announcing his decision is scheduled for next month. National headquarters of the revived organization have been opened at 45 E. 47th St., New York City.

A national chairman will be elected, probably next month, after regional groups are formed.

Richard L. Tobin, of Wilton, Conn., director of public affairs for the New York Herald Tribune, has taken a leave of absence until Nov. 7—the day after election day—to serve as the organization's public relations director.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Weather Bureau today forecast temperatures will average above seasonal normals in the western half of the country during the next 30 days.

The remainder of the 30-day outlook for mid-January to mid-February as pictured by the Weather Bureau:

"East of the Mississippi generally below normal temperatures are indicated, except for near normal in the Great Lakes area and the Northeast."

"Precipitation is expected to be subnormal in the southern half of the nation. Greater than normal amounts of rain and snow are predicted for the Northeast, Northwest and northern Rocky Mountain states with near normal elsewhere."

Six Miners Killed

TERUEL, Spain, Jan. 17 (AP)—Six miners were killed yesterday when a wall collapsed in a coal mine at the village of Adorra, it was announced today.

Lost Airliner Lands Safely

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—A Northeast Airlines plane with 24 persons aboard landed safely at La Guardia Field after it was lost and overdue two hours and 22 minutes. It had gasoline enough left for only about 14 minutes.

The two-engine plane made it here from Boston without lights, radio or electrical navigational equipment. Part of its flight was through blinding snow.

The airliner's electrical equipment failed shortly after it left Boston at 4:56 p.m. There was no way for ground stations to contact it. Nor could it get its usual guidance from the ground.

Compass Guides Him

All the pilot had to navigate by was his compass.

When the plane failed to arrive at La Guardia field at its scheduled time of 5:50 p.m., a radar search was launched for it along the coast.

The plane had enough fuel to keep it aloft until 8:26 p.m.

Various reports of the airliner were received from New England points. The Coast Guard sent out a rescue plane from New York to search for the missing airliner.

However, at 8:12 p.m., the plane, Northeast's Flight 109, landed safely.

Gen. Ridgway To Be Heard

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Congressional committees laid plans today to obtain testimony from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who has charged that politics prompted the Eisenhower administration to make dangerous cuts in the Army.

Rep. Sikes (D-Fla.) said he would invite Ridgway to appear before a House appropriations subcommittee which he heads to go into charges made by the general in a magazine article.

Members of the Senate Armed Services Committee were described as "unquestionably" ready to ask Secretary of the Army Brucker for comment when he meets with the group next Monday.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) earlier had suggested the Armed Services Committee look into Ridgway's sharply worded recollection of some of his experiences as chief of staff from 1953 to 1955.

In the first of a series of articles starting in the Saturday Evening Post today, Ridgway said he felt he "was being called on to destroy, rather than to build, a fighting force on which rested the world's best hope for peace." He declared his superiors tried to persuade him to adjust his views to a "preconceived political-military party line."

Defense department decisions, he said, were based on budgetary and political considerations.

Tanker Blows Up; 40 Men Aboard

LAKE CHARLES, La., Jan. 17 (AP)—State police said a tanker blew up tonight at the docks of the Cities Service Refining Co., about six miles west of here.

The tanker was reported carrying a crew of about 40 men. There was no information how many were aboard at the time.

State police set up roadblocks in the area around the multimillion-dollar plant to keep out traffic.

Non-Agency Service To Be Provided

MOUNT POCONO residents lost their fight to keep the Lackawanna Railroad station in that borough open yesterday.

In Harrisburg the Public Utility Commission announced that it had decided in favor of the railroad. Lackawanna has been trying to close the depot—at least on a part-time basis—since 1949. The railroad had lost two previous battles before the PUC.

Non-Agency Service

The fight on the part of local citizens had been chugging along on a steep uphill grade since 1952, however. They won a round before the PUC a year earlier.

In its announcement of the authorization, the PUC office in Harrisburg said that the railroad will "provide non-agency passenger train service (stopping at Mount Pocono) during the area's resort season between June 15 and Sept. 15 each year."

The PUC order makes it possible for the Lackawanna to drop its passenger-freight agent service at Mount Pocono on 15 days' notice. Major agent service from then on in the west mountain area would be at Pocono Summit.

A public hearing on the railroad's request was held in Monroe County Courthouse on July 15, 1955. A large number of witnesses, representing resort interests and local businesses appeared to testify.

Two Miles Away

Most of the citizen testimony was met by the same rebuttal from Lackawanna lawyers: The Pocono Summit station is only about two miles from Mount Pocono and business at the latter station has declined gradually since 1951.

"Railroad and railway express experts took up most of the time at the July 15 hearing in Stroudsburg. It was 3:30 p.m. before citizens began to take the stand. The hearing ended in late afternoon with all residents wishing to testify having been heard."

Walter Declares U. S. Red Menace Remains Unabated

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities warned Americans today to keep vigilant, that the Communist conspiracy still dwells among them.

In its annual report, released today, the committee said it had unearthed new evidence during its 1955 hearings, of "machinations of the Kremlin's conspirators in this country."

The committee held hearings last year in Washington, New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Wisconsin, California and Washington State.

Chairman Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) said the results of the work "point clearly to the fact that the menace of Communism in America remains unabated."

Virginia Warren Doesn't Know Prince Murat

DALLAS, Jan. 17 (AP)—Virginia Warren, 27, daughter of Chief Justice and Mrs. Earl Warren today disclaimed acquaintance of Prince Napoleon Murat, much less marriage prospects.

Party giver and former minister to Luxembourg, Mrs. Perle Mesta said yesterday in New York she is asking both of them to one of her parties, but later said she "kind of talked out of turn" in suggesting Virginia as the prince's bride.

Four Dead In Storm

BOSTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The heaviest snowstorm of the season hit southern New England and deposited up to 12 inches of snow. Four deaths were attributed to the storm.

Not all the 10,200,000 shares were available to the public. Blocks were set aside for Ford dealers and employees, investment trusts and institutional investors, and foreign investors.

Ford has not announced what its annual dividend will be, but has said a 60-cent dividend will be paid in the present quarter. That would be $2.40 on an annual basis, giving the shares a yield of 3.7 per cent.

Gov. Leader Is 38

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17 (AP)—Senate Democrats and Republicans joined today in wishing Gov. Leader a happy 38th birthday.

Federal Insurance For 30-Year Home Loans Reinstated By FHA And VA Authorities

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—From now on home buyers who obtain loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration or the Federal Housing Administration may have 30 years to pay off the loans.

This was announced today by the VA and FHA, which last July 30 had cut the maximum permissible maturity on VA-guaranteed and FHA-insured loans from 30 to 25 years. Stretching a loan over five more years means smaller monthly payments.

Down Payment Same

"Although 30 years is now the maximum maturity of government-

Dulles Clarifies 'Walked To Brink Of War' Quote

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today backed away from a magazine article which quoted him as saying the Eisenhower administration "walked to the brink" of war three times and averted it by "strong action."

But Dulles stood firm on what he termed a "policy of seeking to prevent war by preventing aggression by a potential aggressor." He said this "is a calculated risk for peace" and is part of a policy which also includes patience, conciliation and pursuing "every honorable course to avoid" war.

Needled by Stevenson

Dulles spoke out in the midst of a controversy which has raged in Congress and among America's allies over Dulles' interview with Life magazine. At St. Paul, Minn., today, Adlai Stevenson, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, called on Eisenhower to repudiate the "brink of war" statement of fire Dulles. Stevenson accused Dulles of "suicidal folly."

The magazine article, by Time-Life's Washington Bureau Chief James Shepley, said Dulles thrice averted war—over Korea, Indochina and Formosa—by letting the Communists know the United States was prepared to take strong measures. Dulles had said last Friday that the statements attributed to him "do not require correction from the standpoint of their substance."

Keep 'Em Guessing

Dulles differed on at least five points with the article. He insisted he did not want to be drawn into a discussion of "the author's views" although he would not spell out where his views ended and the author's began.

He declined, when specifically asked by reporters, to clarify some of these points raised in the article. For instance, the point that Dulles "has never doubted" President Eisenhower would treat a Red Chinese attack on the off-China islands of Quemoy and Matsu as an attack on the Nationalist Chinese stronghold of Formosa which the United States is sworn by treaty to defend.

Dulles, although holding to his claim that miscalculations of intent are a historic cause of war, reverted to a "keep 'em guessing" philosophy on this issue. He said he thinks the Red Chinese think the United States will fight if they launch an attack "which comprehends a claim to take by force Formosa and the Penghus (Pescadores)."

SEC Clears Ford Motor Co. Shares At $64.50 Apiece

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—The public offering of Ford Motor shares at $64.50 apiece was cleared by the Securities and Exchange Commission late today and dealings began immediately—at a premium of around $4 a share.

SEC clearance was the last major step before the shares could be sold. Formal offerings will be tomorrow morning, but underwriters said the offering actually became effective with the clearance.

In the over-the-counter market in this country, the shares were bid at $68.50 and offered at $68.75. They will be listed on the New York Stock Exchange around March 1.

Premium in Canada

They moved immediately to a premium in Canada, traded on a "when issued" basis at around $68.50 bid, $69.50 asked. Such trading was prohibited in this country until the Securities and Exchange Commission declared Ford's registration statement effective.

Sale of the 10,200,000 shares, set for tomorrow morning, will net $657,900,000, making it the biggest common stock sale in history.

While the public will pay $64.50 a share, the Ford Foundation, which is selling the stock, will receive $63 a share for a total of $642,600,000. The difference of $15,300,000 will go to underwriters and investment dealers as discounts and commissions.

Wall Street's reaction to the price was that it was "fair." The announcement ended intense conjecture on what the figure would be.

The stock was a sellout even before it was offered. Most brokers already had made up lists allotting shares among their customers. Because of the great demand, thousands of investors were scheduled to receive less than 10 shares, although they had asked for many more.

Effort Made To Salvage Aid Program

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today he is sure Congress will help solve the problem of long-range foreign aid as a counter weapon to Russian promises.

He is confident of that, he told a news conference, once Congress understands what the administration has in mind.

The administration is reported asking for the authority to pledge up to 10 years of economic aid for specified projects, at a possible cost of a billion dollars.

Strong Opposition

Such congressional leaders as Sen. George (D-Ga.) and Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) have opposed the idea. It would be a departure from the practice of limiting pledges of aid to the amount Congress appropriates each year.

Dulles said he was aware of objections in Congress, since one session cannot bind a future Congress on appropriations. However, he recalled that the government found a way around this obstacle in the Marshall plan of European aid.

The Marshall plan method was adoption of the principle of continuing aid. It was left up to Congress each year to provide the funds.

Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., met in closed session with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee more than an hour this morning.

In view of the opposition from George and others, Dulles was asked at his news conference whether the administration intends to drop the idea of long-term commitments.

Retirement of Croplands

Both the administration bill and the tentative Ellender draft contained proposals for what have become known as the soil bank approach to the problem of mounting surpluses and declining farm revenue.

Broadly, they call for retirement of much cropland from unnecessary production, with farmers who participate being given rewards in cash or in the form of commodities drawn from government surpluses.

Settles For $32,000

Motorist Killed

WASHINGTON, N. J., Jan. 17 (AP)—A motorist who skidded as he passed another car was killed instantly today in the resulting collision with a banana truck. State police said the victim was Franklin D. Fegley, 24, of Oxford.

Estimates Yield

He estimated the yield at 306 million dollars under his Feb. 1 effective date. At the same time, the finance committee approved House-passed legislation to:

1. Increase the 5 per cent corporate net income tax to 6 per cent to yield 54 millions.
2. Speed up collection of the 5-mill capital stock tax to bring in 25 millions.

Democrats Boost GOP Rate To 3%

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17 (AP)—Separate sales tax plans reached the floor in both the House and Senate tonight to a backdrop of confusion on who is going to support what.

It's the first time in the politically divided Legislature a sales tax has been sent to the floor for possible vote by the full membership.

GOP Limits Support

Here's what happened during a day charged with political dynamite while the Commonwealth's tax future was at stake:

1. The Democratic-controlled House Ways and Means Committee approved a Republican-sponsored sales tax for floor action after increasing its rates from 2 to 3 per cent.
2. The House Republican caucus limited its support of a sales tax to only a 2 per cent rate. Its leader, Rep. Smith, said there never would be a GOP vote for a 3 per cent sales tax.
3. The Republican-dominated Senate Finance Committee transformed Gov. Leader's defeated manufacturers' excise tax into a 3 per cent sales tax to be known as a consumers' excise tax and called for a final vote tomorrow.

Opposed By Democrats

4. Senate Democrats said they would oppose this type of levy on grounds it would provide so many exemptions that the yield would be far less than what is needed to balance the budget.

5. House Republicans submitted a new 2 per cent sales tax plan which was kept in committee by the Democrats.

As one development piled on top of another in both chambers, Sen. Dent, Democratic floor leader, commented:

"It seems to be that what is now needed is a compromise—not between Republicans and Democrats—but between House Republicans and Senate Republicans."

Smith said he felt the confusion could be ended in a moment if Gov. Leader came out flatly in support of a sales tax. He said:

Veto Speculated

"We ask the governor, before this sales tax reaches a vote, to say outright whether he will sign it or veto it. There's no use in voting for a tax if the governor is going to veto it."

In the House, Rep. Readinger, Democratic leader, said his colleagues would supply the necessary votes to help Republicans pass a 3 per cent sales tax.

He referred to the measure introduced last March by Rep. Hewitt (R-Indiana) for a 2 per cent sales tax with food as the only principal exemption.

It was revised by the Ways and Means Committee to 3 per cent and Readinger estimated the yield at about 100 million dollars next March 1 and the end of the current biennium, May 31, 1957.

Readinger noted that the Senate GOP rejected the governor's offer to approve a sales tax to raise half of the Commonwealth's tax needs if Republicans in turn would accept an administration tax, probably a 2 per cent personal net income levy.

GOP Sales Tax

"You Republicans may write any kind of tax plan you like by offering amendments to it. If a sales tax is to be passed, it will be a Republican-sponsored bill."

Smith, who is the organization candidate for the GOP nomination for auditor general, said there would be no Republican votes for a 3 per cent tax.

"There is no sense for us to solve your (the administration's) entire tax problem," said Smith. "We will give you, if you allow us to, a fair 2 per cent sales tax. We are willing to sponsor it and willing to accept the responsibility."

In the Senate, the Republican-controlled Finance Committee completely rewrote the administration's 3 1/2 per cent manufacturers' excise tax which was defeated by the Senate GOP last month.

Kessler said the new changes made the measure into something "very close to a retail sales tax—a fact which your committee makes no effort to conceal."

"It is better in this form because it will be open and above-board in its operation and incidence," said Kessler.

Harry Miller Sworn In As Chief Deputy

HARRY A. MILLER, East Stroudsburg, RD 3, yesterday was sworn in as Monroe County's chief deputy sheriff.

President Judge Fred W. Davis administered the oath to Miller, who succeeds Henry McCool as top assistant to Sheriff Jacob Altemose. McCool, now, is serving as chief clerk to the Board of County Commissioners.

The new chief deputy also serves as a Democratic auditor in Stroud

Township, is on the board of directors of the Stroud Township Volunteer Fire Department, and serves as president of the Monroe County Coin Club.

A native of Monroe County, Miller attended Stroudsburg High School before entering the Navy. His wife, Ruth, is a justice of the peace in Stroud Township. They have two children, Barry, 8, and Floyd, 4.

Bill Provides Licensing Of Child Camps

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17 (AP)—Sen. Stiefel tonight introduced new legislation to bring about state licensing of children's summer camps as a safety and health measure.

Stiefel said a former bill, introduced by him some months ago, encountered opposition from church and Boy Scout groups and other sponsoring summer camps.

The Philadelphia Democrat said he had no intention of antagonizing such groups but was aiming merely at setting standards for camps operating for private profit.

Stiefel's new bill calls for a survey by the Joint State Government Commission, the Legislature's research arm, of all legislation dealing with camps in order to pave the way for a state code.

A number of agencies at present are devising a voluntary code, he said. His legislation, in substance, he explained, gives these agencies until 1957 to have their code prepared or the state will step in.

BIGGEST OF THE BIG 3 -and mighty proud of it!

You certainly should look at the '56 Buick SPECIAL!

WE've said it before, and we'll say it again:

If you can afford any new car, you can afford a Buick — and the sales figures make the proof of that stronger and stronger.

Just ask yourself: which cars would normally be in the top 3 of America's best sellers? The well-known smaller cars — naturally.

But which cars are in that Big 3? Two of the well-known smaller cars, and Buick — for over two years running now.

That means Buick prices are well within reach of more and more people — thanks primarily to the budget-tagged Buick SPECIAL, like the one pictured above.

And that's the whole point of the matter.

For this low-priced Buick SPECIAL — so close in cost to the smaller cars — is so much more automobile for the money, it's the stand-out buy of its field.

It's the biggest of the Big 3 in power, thrill, in comfort, in size and breadth and luxury and sheer roadability.

It's the biggest of the Big 3 in the solidity and softness of its all-coil-spring ride — in the sweep of its styling — and in the pure thrill of its performance.

For where else but in Buick can you get the nimble getaway, the gas-saving mileage, the electrifying switch-pitch action and the absolute smoothness of the new Variable Pitch Dynaflo.*

Come in to see and drive the biggest bundle of high-powered beauty and energy ever offered in Buick's lowest-priced Series.

It's proud we certainly are to be able to offer so much car for the money — but nothing to how proud you'll be when you boss a new SPECIAL. Can you come in tomorrow?

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century — optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Dulles' Reply Follows Steady U. S. Policy

By J. M. Roberts
Associated Press News Analyst
Secretary Dulles' formal reply to the furor created by expressions attributed to him in a Life Magazine article emphasizes that American policy has been following a steady course laid down years ago, regardless of the difficulty of putting it into words.

The policy has been developing, of course, as the nature of the conflict with Russia has developed.

At first the Truman administration relied heavily on America's exclusive possession of the atomic bomb to deter any aggression which would cause the United States to fight.

Containment Objective
Then, as Russia shifted back and forth between a military and a political or economic infiltration policy, the Marshall plan and the North American Treaty Organization were devised. Containment of Communist expansion in any form became the first objective, followed by creation of a position of strength from which it was hoped East-West settlements could be negotiated eventually.

The Korean War was fought to convince the Communists that aggression could not be made to pay. Dulles extended the policy to include advance warning of points at which the United States would react to aggressive pressure. Such pressure was being brought, or was feared, at the points which he mentioned in the Life article as having three times brought the nation to the verge of war.

Two Broad Meanings
There can be only two broad meanings for the vast rearmament program followed by the United States the last seven years. The strength, accompanied by the known determination to use it if pushed too far, is either a deterrent, or it is useless. The determination must always be kept clearly before all possible aggressors.

The idea that rearmament represents an acceptance of the inevitability of war, or of an intent to enforce American ideas of world organization by war, is not even believed by the Communists who express it.

The furor has been created not by real attitudes, but by words, at a time when the United States is engaged in tense domestic political activities, and by fear abroad that the critical interpretation might be the right one. Words about Ameri-

Billion And A Half Federal Aid To Education Cannot Ease Our Local Taxes

A billion and a quarter dollars, even spaced out over five years, sounds like a whopping sum for you and every other American taxpayer to put up.

That's the amount of spending that President Eisenhower proposes to overcome the deficit of classrooms, brought about partly by the halt in practically all new school construction during the wartime years and even more by the tremendous increase in our national birth rate.

What is this classroom deficit? It is difficult to pin down, and you'll get a variety of answers, all of them in six figures. Most authentic probably is that established by the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Secretary Folsom sets it at 470,000 new classrooms needed by 1960.

That billion and quarter dollars, if it is forthcoming from Uncle Sam (and that depends upon the Congress), won't begin to meet the need.

With the estimated one billion dollars more that states and local school boards would have to put on the line, on the matching formula proposed by the President, 60,000 classrooms could be built in the next five years.

That leaves 410,000 classrooms for which the states and communities must find the money on their own.

We cite these statistics to disabuse you of any wishful thinking on federal aid for school building.

You won't be just putting up more tax money at the federal level to pick up the tab, for the school facilities this nation must have.

Your State tax load, for schools, is sure-fire to increase even more and, depending upon your local school situation, so will your local district tax tab skyrocket.

Federal cash will become available, if it does, only for brick and mortar.

But the finest school buildings possible to construct won't be worth a dime of the millions they will cost, if they are not staffed by trained and competent teachers.

Here is where the State and the local school boards will have to come to the front all by themselves. Somehow, some way they will have to raise millions of extra dollars in a two-way stretch: They will have to add more teachers to the facilities already functioning, automatically hiking this payroll cost, and they will have to increase the salaries of teachers all down the line. Don't kid yourself on this point. On the average, Pennsylvania teachers are underpaid, and their salaries must go up if this Commonwealth is to keep the teachers it already has, to say nothing of getting the new ones it will have to find. You need look only at neighboring states, where Legislatures and Governors right now are seriously entertaining proposals to increase teacher salary minimums already higher than those in Pennsylvania.

It is important that you understand, completely and clearly, that your State and local tax bill for schools is going up in the years immediately ahead. Don't get the idea that the Federal Government may spend so much that states and communities can have a financial sigh of relief at a tax load transferred.

Even a billion and a quarter dollars of federal funds, if it winds up at this figure (and there's a chance, a good one, that Congress won't be able to work out any kind of a federal aid program at all), will only be a drop in the bucket of the cost of education.

George Sokolsky Says...

Land Now Called Israel Has Never Been Without Affections Of Jewish People

There has never been a time in Jewish history when the land, now called Israel, was not the focus of the affections of the Jewish people.

Abraham came into this land; Moses returned his people to it from Egypt; Zion, as it has often been called by prophet and psalmist, is the land to which Jewish memories are dedicated. When the captives sat by the rivers of Babylon, they said, "If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning."

In 70 A.D. the Jews lost Palestine and their temple was burned. Their scholars gathered in Babylonian cities (Nehardea and Pumbedita were two) in the hope of keeping the people together and the sacred tradition of the Torah alive in the memory of man. Actually many of the Jews scattered among the Mediterranean peoples and eventually to every country of every continent. For many centuries, Zion remained a symbol of affection for an ancient land. It was not until the Nineteenth Century that practical steps were taken to restore Israel to the Jewish people.

At first, colonization plans were made and some were carried through to fruition. This was part of a program of restoring the Jew to agriculture which was his original way of life. But under the leadership of Dr. Theodor Herzl, a Viennese journalist, Zionism took on a political nature. At the Basle Congress (1897), the first time Jews from all countries were brought together to consider their condition, Herzl's concept of political Zionism was accepted and the Zionist movement was launched. There was considerable opposition inside world Jewry, but over the years the opposition died down and where it still exists, it is so unopposed as generally to be hidden away.

In the United States, opposition to Israel among Jews is negligible. Up to World War I, the Zionist movement made certain progress but it was not until the Balfour Declaration was issued by Great Britain in 1917, as a result of the pleas of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, the inventor of TNT, that the hope for a homeland for the Jews in Palestine seemed assured. The Balfour Declaration said:

"His Majesty's Government view with favour the establishment

ment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people, and will use their best endeavours to facilitate the achievement of this object, it being clearly understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine, or the rights and political status enjoyed by Jews in any other country."

Palestine, prior to World War I, was Turkish territory and as the Turks and Jews got on well together, there was no question of antagonism. After World War I, Palestine was mandated to Great Britain and this led to considerable trouble as the British were anxious to hold the Arabs in line and the Arabs were anti-Zionist and anti-Jewish. This conflict continued in many forms until 1949 when the United Nations recognized Israel as a sovereign state. In this recognition, the United States, Great Britain and Soviet Russia joined.

The way of Israel, however, has not been smooth. Arab, particularly Egyptian, opposition to the existence of Israel has produced almost constant warfare between Israel and some Arab country. In recent months, the violent anti-Israel attitude of Soviet Russia has increased the peril for Israel.

Christmas Holiday Stretch Has Become Two-Way Affair

There has been a good deal of grousing in recent years over a growing tendency of the Christmas season to spread itself out over too much time.

The merchants have been catching most of the criticism, on the theory that a longer shopping season enables them to squeeze more dollars out of the Christmas spirit of benevolent goodwill.

That is as it may be. I dare say merchants have as many selfish impulses as anybody else and are not above stretching out the sunshine for a little extra haymaking.

But let's not blame all of the Christmas stretch on the merchants. It's a two-way stretch. Any careful observer must have noticed that the Christmas holiday season has been getting longer not only in front but also in back.

It is true that the holly and tinsel are going up earlier every year, but it's also true that they are staying up later every year.

Used to be that most people put up the Christmas tree after the kids went to bed on Christmas Eve and took it down the day after Christmas.

Nowadays more and more of them put up the tree a week or 10 days before Christmas and leave it up until it disintegrates and gets kicked under the rug.

A few more years of this and I expect to hear of some observant housewife calling up the paper to report that the first robin has built a nest in the wreath on her front door.

Now, you can say this about the alleged desire of merchants to fudge up the kickoff of the Christmas buying season. It is based on logical thinking and it entails some extra effort on the part of the merchants.

The extending hangover of the Christmas season, on the other hand, must be laid primarily to sheer laziness.

Oh, there may be a smidgen of commendable frugality mixed into the motivation. Christmas trees cost a lot more nowadays than they used to, and people probably feel they must get their money's worth out of them.

But this can be overdone, and unless some tacit agreement can be reached on a time for winding up the holiday merriment it won't be long until we'll still have the glass balls and tinsel icicles hanging around on the Fourth of July. It would be very dangerous for children to be tossing contraband firecrackers around with highly inflammable Christmas trees on the premises.

My thought is that the Christmas tree should go out, at the latest, when the Christmas bells come in. Nothing is so likely to inspire a permanent antagonism for Santa Claus as to have him smirking down from the top of a bedraggled spruce at a harassed householder squeezing the last drops of lifeblood out of an even more bedraggled checkbook.

Newbold Morris tells of a day he was visiting Radio City Music Hall with the late Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia. The spotlight was turned on the organist, "Newbold," whispered the Mayor, "that's how a city should be run. Like an organist, you must keep both hands on the keyboard and both feet on the pedals—and never let go."

A minute later a cop tapped him on the shoulder and told him a three-alarm fire was raging some miles away. "The Little Flower" charged up the aisle, and minutes later disappeared into the burning building. He was the last to emerge before the walls crumbled to the ground.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Ike's Physicians Advises Him To "Get It Over With"

Washington, January 18—President Eisenhower's physician is giving him one important piece of advice about running again.

It's that he should make up his mind at an early date.

Dr. Howard Snyder is saying nothing about what this world-awaited decision should be. He is leaving determination of this momentous question entirely up to the President. But the veteran Army physician is counseling him on when he should make up his mind.

Dr. Snyder now feels strongly that the sooner it is done, the better it will be for the President's health.

This view is based solely on medical grounds. Dr. Snyder deems it highly desirable for the President's continued unimpaired recovery to eliminate the "strain of indecision" about a second term, which could have possible retarding effect.

So he is being advised to "get it over with."

National Chairman Leonard Hall is authority for this significant inside word.

He is imparting it to key Republican congressional leaders who are close to the Administration. Hall is telling them the President will probably make his intentions known earlier than has been generally expected. Dr. Snyder's advice to the President is explained as the reason for this.

It is also being intimated to congressional leaders that the President's announcement may come this week, when he addresses twelve of the nationwide series of "Salute to Eisenhower" rallies over a TV closed circuit.

Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, however, has a different date. His is around February 12—Lincoln's birthday.

Note: Senator William Knowland has scratched Illinois' April 10 presidential primary off the list of those he will enter if the President doesn't run. The California did consider Illinois for a while, but has decided against it. He is telling friends he has definitely determined on Wisconsin, April 3; Maryland, May 7; and California, June 5.

Democratic Politicals — Senator Estes Kefauver's campaign managers are split over entering Ohio's May 8 primary. The Tennessee's Washington lieutenants are against that, but Ohio supporters, headed by Representative Wayne Hays, are insistent on it. They are assuring Kefauver he can capture at least one-third of the delegates from Governor Frank Lausche, who has announced as "favorite son" candidate. . . . House Democratic Floor Leader John McCormack, Mass., is being boomed as Stevenson's running mate. The enthusiastic boomer is Representative Michael Kirwan, O., chairman of the House Democratic Campaign Committee, who is claiming a lot of support for a Stevenson-McCormack ticket. . . . Latest inside word among Southern leaders is that Senator Stuart Symington, Mo., is being increasingly mentioned as a compromise "dark horse" choice in the event of a deadlock among the three current front-runners — Stevenson, Kefauver and Governor Averell Harriman. If they stymie one another, Symington is the man to keep an eye on. He has a lot of friends where it counts.

New Red Tactic — The Russian embassy in Washington is trying to cotton up to certain Republican senators.

The surprising attempt is being made through their administrative assistants.

They are being invited to social affairs at the embassy, and efforts are being made to shower other attentions on them.

To mastermind this latest cold war maneuver, the Reds have an "expert" devoting full time to research on the matter. He is apparently trying to ascertain the best way to woo these Republicans.

The State Department knows all about it. It's being followed with lively interest.

That's what Robert O. Blake, career diplomat, disclosed to a group of reserve officers. He is on the State Department's East European desk, and accompanied Secretary Dulles to last fall's ineffectual foreign ministers conference in Geneva.

Talking to the reserve officers on "The post-spirit of Geneva," Blake told them:

"Since Geneva, the Russians have displayed marked interest in the so-called right wing of the Republican party. They even have an expert in the Soviet embassy who is devoting full time to research on that element of the party. This expert is Charge d'Affaires Sergei Striganov. He has made a number of inquiries regarding the administrative assistants of certain senators, and has extended invitations for them to visit the embassy."

Note: Since the "summit" conference last year, officials of the Kremlin embassy in Washington have been more active socially than at any time since World War II. They attend all diplomatic affairs to which they are invited, and have at least one party a week of their own.

Grouse Survey Excellent

—by H. G. Heller

For the past few years the Game Commission has conducted a grouse aging survey to determine the position of these birds in the cycle. Pennsylvania sportsmen and Game Protectors have co-operated by sending grouse wing and tail feathers to the Commission's research staff. Normally, 70% to 80% of the ruffed grouse killed by hunters are young of the year, except in the low years of the ten-year cycle. During the low years the survival rate of young birds is poor, and the percentage of old birds bagged will exceed that of young birds.

In 1955 there were about one and one-half young birds killed for each adult. In 1954 the adults slightly exceeded the young birds shot. This would strongly indicate that 1954 was the low of the cycle, and that the trend has now started upward.

Cutting and Game

Recently, Laurence E. Stotz, who writes under the title "Your Forest Ranger," said:

"On the average pulpwood sale, on the Allegheny National Forest, it takes six trees to make a cord of wood. So for each cord of rough wood cut six tops, long grown far out of reach of the hungry deer, are brought cashing to the ground to be browsed on by deer after the bolts of wood are removed and head for the paper mill. From 50 to 80 trees per acre are thus removed in the pulpwood operation. If the deer are in proper balance more deer food will become established in the small openings created by this pulpwood harvest."

"On the average sawtimber sale on the Forest it takes from 5 to 7 trees to make a thousand board feet, and from 10 to 15 trees per acre are marked for cutting. This insures the removal of about one-third of the volume of the stand. Here again, welcome browse for deer is furnished by the unmerchantable tops after the logs are removed. Since the sawtimber trees are much larger than pulpwood trees, and have more massive crowns, the opportunity for seedlings to develop in the openings created are much greater."

"Thus, game management and timber management go hand in hand."

More than two-thirds of the paint sold to householders is for self-application compared with only 15 per cent sold for that purpose in 1937.

Henry's Warning

Henry Ford II is smart. Realizing that anything can happen in the stock market and that the company could lose millions in good will if the public took a beating in Ford stock, he has come out with a fair and honest warning to investors who may have the idea that a Ford certificate is a passport to Utopia, a season ticket for rainbow rides or a promise of a jackpot program in every home. Henry, going a'bout to be fair, warns the public:

1. That he is operating a highly competitive business, not a reindeer team.

2. Anybody buying common stock in even the best of companies should be able to see the caution light as well as the green.

3. When buying any stock the buyer should realize he can't trade it in for a snapper model on a whim, dispose of it in a used-car lot or hold to a belief that, whatever happens to the country economically, a windshield wiper will clear it all up.

4. The best stock in the best corporation can go dead in case of a depression and can't be started up by phoning for a fresh battery.

5. The Ford Company is running a business, not performing miracles, and is not putting on a Share the Wealth Drive (hydraulic), plugging the song "On the Sunny Side of the Street" or delivering an industrial answer to "Oh, Promise Me."

6. Ford has no department where engineers and designers arrange for noncollapsible stock prices in a choice of colors.

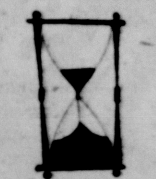

7. Things look good for 1956 in the auto business, but bumpers and shock absorbers are always as prudent on stock-market investors as on automobiles.

8. In any business there can be slumps and in a big break the safety belt and crash-panel won't help.

Mr. Ford said that the tone of letters, press opinions and expert market opinion had led him to fear the public might not show the same care in buying Ford stock as any other stock, and hold a "naive belief in industrial miracles." We think the public reaction will be, "You can't scare us off, Henry. What's good enough for Ford Foundation and the Ford family is good enough for us." (We have increased our order. If we go broke with Ford we can always get placed as an antique in the Dearborn Museum.)

All during the tryouts of "The Great Sebastians," a comedy in which the Lumis play mental telepathists, they kept asking Russell Crouse, "Can you tell me if you see any signs of a long run?" . . . Crouse got the basic idea when he sat in a Kansas City theater as a young reporter, watched a team known as the Fays do crystal gazing, etc., and was told by one of them, "You are about to make a journey to New York where you will become a big figure in the financial world." . . . (Crouse, whose ambition was to write plays, exclaimed, "How silly!" little dreaming that he would become a factor in the world economic picture.) . . . Ima Dodo can't understand Ike's fight for a "soil bank." . . . She asks, "Who's banking dirt?" . . . Many have commented that Prince Rainier

My New York

—by Mel Heimer

New York—I passed the Ziegfeld theater at 54th and Sixth the other day and it looked as if it had one foot in the grave.

I do an injustice to the broadcasting company that has leased it, virtually for eternity, from Billy Rose. Undoubtedly before long it will be gay and noisy and echoing with the raucous snouts of quizmasters yelling hysterically, "You're ABSOLUTELY RIGHT! AND YOU WIN FOUR HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS!" Television has its own peculiar brand of happiness.

Just at the moment, though, the old place looks barren and deserted and I believe the only signs of life are in the upstairs once-apartment still tenanted by Monsour Rose, as Hecht and Fowler once called him. When feeling nostalgic and melancholy, the Monsour still can push aside a sliding panel and look down into the theater and the huge stage and imagine the monstrous—in all meanings of the word—spectacles that once went on there.

Ziggy died 24 years ago, as if he had decided there wasn't a great deal of sense to life since the nation was depression-bound and couldn't cough up the price of a choice seat at the Ziegfeld. All that remains of the old days, I suppose, is the collection of attractive matrons known as the Ziegfeld club.

There are a couple of hundred of them and more than a few still can stop traffic on a summer day. Ziggy, of course, could pick them. He had a great good sense not to choose as Ziegfeld girls those whose only asset was beauty.

I doubt that many of today's models, for instance, would have made a Ziegfeld line. Classic, cool features without warmth wouldn't have been enough. Ziggy wanted women who appealed to men. It seems logical.

One of the most attractive women I ever have met was the late Elissa Landi, red-haired and green-eyed, and yet her features—I saw them again in an old television film the other night—were far from perfect.

Ziegfeld girls were such as Paulette Goddard, Irene Dunne, Gladys Galt, Vivienne Segal, Nita Naldi, Imogene Wilson and Billie Dove, to name some of the better known (there were more than 3,000 over the years). There also were Anna Held, who was almost pudgy, and Gladys Feldman, Peggy Fears and Jessie Reed, among those whose names mean little to today's generation.

The Ziegfeld Club actually started nearly 20 years ago, when the movies were doing a film on his life and it really is a charity organization. Back in 1941, for instance, when Jessie Reed was dying of a streptococcus infection, the girls chipped in and gave her blood transfusions and money, albeit in vain.

The girls have taken care of their own handsomely; they've done much for an old Ziegfeld girl who became a narcotics addict, for another who used to write rubber checks, for a handful who've had TB and for a psychopath who still imagines she is one of Ziggy's glorified clothed—or unclothed—horses.

Some people are inclined to forget that Ziegfeld's touch didn't apply only to picking lovely women. He produced 10 Follies and they made him a barrel of money.

Coolbaugh Teachers, Bus Drivers Agree To Wait For Pay

School Board Awaits State Appropriation

TOBYHANNA—Teachers and bus drivers at Coolbaugh Township School voluntarily agreed to "go on working—even without pay" last night at a special meeting with the district school board.

School directors called the special meeting with the group. Because it has received no state appropriations the district issued its "last" payroll payment on Jan. 11.

Unless more money comes in from Harrisburg, no further payments can be made. The board members praised teachers and drivers for their decision.

Coolbaugh's school board has already borrowed as much money as it legally can. Under the law school directors are allowed to borrow up to two per cent of the district's assessed valuation.

Any amount higher than that has to have the approval of the electorate. The board has borrowed $9,700—which amounts to two per cent of the valuation, a board spokesman said last night.

Over-Populated
In a district which has faced more than its share of problems during the past year or two, the present financial crisis has reached back-breaking financial intensity.

Coolbaugh has an over-population problem as well. Tobyhanna Signal Depot, with its hundreds of new employees, their families and their children has helped to swell the school's population to a point far exceeding the anticipations of past boards.

The number of pupils in the school has more than doubled since 1951. Federal appropriations to help take care of this extra load have come in—but they have been small, so far, and inadequate to help meet the needs.

To take care of the large number of extra students, the school board was forced this year to create two new rooms and partition one old one. Even this action did not solve the problem fully.

Coolbaugh is also one of the districts whose share of state appropriation runs high. Its reimbursement fraction—the formula used in figuring the amount of subsidy the district gets—is presently 68 per cent. This means, roughly, that the district depends upon the state for about half of its financing.

No Place To Turn
When the state appropriation failed to come in this year, board members were faced with a home-action problem they had not had to handle in recent years. As is the case with most rural or township boards, Coolbaugh has little or no place to turn for needed funds.

With a low assessed value and a strictly limited borrowing power, the board did the only thing it could do: It borrowed to the legal limit, hoping that state funds would arrive in the meantime.

This month they faced the cold fact that they had gone just about as far as they could go—but there were still no state appropriation funds in the treasury.

Last night's action by the teachers and bus drivers was the one encouraging spot in board members' lives recently. The primary interest on behalf of the teachers and the board—a director said—is "keeping the school running. That's all we really care about right now."

THE CHILD'S NEED IN THE COMMUNITY was stressed at yesterday's Children's Aid Society meeting. Honored guests at meeting were Miss Ora Pendleton, third from right, retiring county agency director for CAS of Pennsylvania and her successor (to her right) Miss Roberta Andrews. Others in photo are Mrs. W. Dolby Palmer, one of early founders of the organization in Monroe County; Mrs. Jean Albert, executive director; Mrs. Donald Gilpin, present president and Mrs. T. F. Rhodes, first president of the county agency.

Miss Ora Pendleton Retires As County Director Of CAS

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY of Monroe County yesterday paid tribute to Miss Ora Pendleton, retiring county agent director of Children's Aid of Pennsylvania.

Miss Pendleton has served in the post the past 12 years. At a luncheon meeting in the Penn-Stroud board members praised her faithful service to all county agencies and especially her kindness and assistance to the local group.

Mrs. Donald Gilpin, county board president, presented a painting of a Monroe County scene to Miss Pendleton on behalf of the board and the Children's Aid staff. A book containing written notes from board members who had been associated with Miss Pendleton throughout her 12 years of service was also presented.

Accepting the gifts, Miss Pendleton said:

Expresses Gratitude
"I am full of gratitude for all the years I have been able to work with Children's Aid and more especially for all the time I have spent with the county agencies."

"As we all know a children's agency can never grow old. It needs younger and more vigorous and more creative hands as it grows with the years. More than anything it needs the constant concern of persons within the community."

"This caring for goals and ideals is exemplified in Monroe County. Here you see clearly what a small segment of the community working toward the right goal and working together can do."

"When you are very young, I think you resent having to feel grateful. But as you grow older you learn that it gives you a chance to repay a little of what you have received. My life has been made richer by my association with you. This is the timeless and indestructible gift you have given me."

Successor Welcomed
The board also welcomed Miss Roberta Andrews, who will succeed Miss Pendleton as county agency director. Miss Andrews was formerly with the Spence-Chapin Adoption Agency in New York. She assumes her new post in June of this year.

Miss Andrews was presented with a "giant-sized key" to the office of the local Children's Aid Society. The board pledged its constant cooperation with her in her duties as new director of county agencies.

In other actions, the board elected Mrs. Ralph Turn Jr., Bushkill, to membership on the board. The report of the executive director, Mrs. Jean Albert, showed that 57 children were in the care of the society during December. Mrs. Albert emphasized again that the society "desperately needs" foster homes within Monroe County to serve as homes for placement of children.

Only one new foster home application was received during the month of December, Mrs. Albert said.

Mrs. Roberts, 80, Succumbs At Bethlehem

MRS. SADIE Dreisbach Roberts, 80, a Summer resident of Buck Hill Falls, died yesterday afternoon at the family home, 1850 Easton Ave., Bethlehem.

She was the wife of Warren R. Roberts, former auditor-general of Pennsylvania and head of the wartime State Salvage Board. Mrs. Roberts had been in ill health the past several months.

Born in Mauch Chunk Township, Carbon County, she was a daughter of the late Elias and Louisa Weaver Dreisbach. She moved to Bethlehem with her family at an early age.

She had been a member of Salem Lutheran Church in that city the past 60 years; was active in Sunday school and woman's association activities within the church. In 1908 she was married to Roberts.

Christened Ship
In 1944 she was honored by the Federal War Production Board when she was chosen to christen a Liberty Ship constructed by Bethlehem Steel at its Maryland plant.

Her only immediate survivors are her husband and a sister, Mrs. Carrie Miller, both of Bethlehem.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at Salem Lutheran Church in Bethlehem with interment in Nisky Hill Cemetery.

Funeral home, 500 Linden St., Bethlehem, is in charge of the services.

Westinghouse Talks Continue
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 17 (AP)—A federal mediator today met with top company and union negotiators for the fourth straight day to try to find a basis for resuming full-scale negotiations in the 93-day old Westinghouse Electric Corp. strike.

There was no report of progress. Meanwhile, Westinghouse announced today it had signed a five-year contract with Local 1167 of the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. The local represents 350 employees at the Westinghouse Plant in Bellefonte, Ohio.

The contract is similar to those rejected by the two striking unions.

Diesel Engine Catches Fire
A DIESEL engine caught fire at Gravel Place crossing at 4 p.m. yesterday.

Acme Hose Co. answered the alarm. Firemen used chemicals—four CO2 tanks and one five-gallon container of liquid foam—to extinguish the fire.

No estimate of damage could be made yesterday. The fire occurred in the mechanical underparts of the engine. Fuel under the engine caught fire, also. Firemen stayed on the scene 45 minutes.

MAJORIE M. Easton, Stroudsburg, has transferred a lot in Middle Smithfield to Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Willis, East Orange, N.J., according to a deed filed yesterday in the office of Register and Recorder Floyd Butz.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Phillips, Stroudsburg, have transferred a lot within the borough to Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Phillips, also of Stroudsburg.

Last Contract Awarded For N. E. Turnpike

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission today awarded its last construction contract for the 110-mile Northeastern extension to George M. Brewster and Son, Bogota, N. J.

Brewster was the lowest of four bidders with a bid of $3,722,873 for a 3.54 mile length of the toll highway in Moosic, Lackawanna County, and Pittston Twp., Luzerne County.

Some 40 miles of the extension between Plymouth Meeting on the present 360-mile east-west highway and Allentown are open. The remainder of the highway will be opened by the end of this year.

Lake Is Open To Ice Boating, Fishing, Sledding
LAKE WALLENPAUPACK this year will again be open to the public for ice boating, sledding and fishing, it was announced yesterday by Pennsylvania Power & Light Co.

Permits are required for boating and sledding and can be obtained from Robert Tragus, lake superintendent, whose office is at Wallenpaupack dam. PP&L permits are not needed for ice fishing.

In announcing availability of the lake for these sports, it was pointed out that persons are not allowed on the lake within 750 feet of the dam nor in a restricted area in that vicinity marked by "No Entry" notices.

PTA Unit Protests Delay In State Payments To Schools

A strong plea to the legislators of Pennsylvania to settle their differences in the tax debate and to provide immediately the overdue funds to the schools of this district was unanimously passed by the Stroud High School Parent-Teachers Association at their meeting on Monday night.

Letters from the PTA to the state representative and state senator from this district were to be sent immediately, registering the protest of the PTA as a group to the delaying tactics which have held up the payment of school funds to districts. The action came at the close of the meeting, devoted to an evaluation of the first six months of operation of the new Stroud Union School District. The general picture from both the administrative and financial end was reported as a bright one despite the one-two punch of the flood and delayed state funds.

With Loring Cramer, president of Stroud Union board of education serving as moderator, Earl Groner, superintendent of the district, reported on administrative progress and plans and J. L. Cohen on the financial angle.

Plans Ready for Bids

Big news from the administration angle came from Mr. Groner's announcement that by February 8, the plans for the proposed new elementary school west of Stroudsburg and the proposed additions to the high school should be ready to submit for bids.

However, even before these important changes come into being, the union school districts have made important strides, he reported. Before the flood, plans had been completed for the establishment of kindergarten for all children of the district, hot lunch programs for the elementary schools, uniform provisions for music, school nurses and psychologist had been set up and have now been put in operation. Overcrowding in some elementary grades would be relieved by the new school, he promised, which would also make shorter and more efficient bus routes possible.

On the high school level, the uniform attendance rules, control of the bus routes and other benefits were also showing results, he said.

Finances, If and When

From the financial angle, the union has made possible fundamental economies in purchase of supplies, Cohen reported, as well as a more favorable condition from reimbursement from the state. However the increased services offered all the children of the district balance the economies made possible through the union, he pointed out. A possible rise in taxes might result from increased service and facilities.

The delay in payment of state reimbursement has forced the board to borrow against the time when such payment will be made, he explained. With the payment from the state and tuition payments, the financial situation should be in balance despite flood damage to buildings and material.

Questions Answered

The interest of the audience was apparent in the question period which followed the panel. Would the proposed establishment of new religious high schools in the county effect the high school population was a question answered by the fact that the number of students who might go had already been estimated before the union district was set up.

Another question was on the percentage of state aid which amounts to about 16 per cent of the total budget. If new taxes were necessary, how much would they be? There was no answer possible, Cohen pointed out, since the loss of tax money due to flood destruction was still among many unknown factors which could affect the tax picture.

Robert Haigh, High School PTA president at the business meeting when the motion was passed asking for an immediate ending of the tax deadlock. He pointed out that no politics were involved in the plea with both parties responsible for ending the deadlock.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses: Mrs. Arthur Ifft, chairman; Mrs. D. W. Frankenfield, Mrs. Jonas May, Mrs. J. L. Kerlin, Mrs. Alfred Munson, Mrs. Howard Altman, and Mrs. Francis Meredith.

Kresge Clan Has Holiday Reunion

The annual Christmas party of the Kresge family and their friends was held Friday, December 30 at the firehouse in Tannersville. Refreshments were served, gifts exchanged and moving pictures and other pictures were taken of the group.

Games with prizes for the winners marked the party. Rev. William Foose led the group in a closing hymn.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Kresge, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kresge and children, Ronald George, James and Davis, Stanley Kresge, Joseph Pfaffinger and daughters, Rita and Helen, Miss Nancy Dennis, Rev. and Mrs. William E. Foose and children, Robert, Margaret and Brian, Mrs. Bates, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kresge and son, Lowell, and daughters, Linda Joyce and Katrina; Dr. and Mrs. John Schlenberger and children, Jane and Bill, Miss Margaret Biggs, Miss Lois Shellenberger, Ricky Pierce, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kresge Jr.

Unable to attend were Dorothy Kresge, Hedi Pfaffinger, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peechacka and son, Bobby, who were ill and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kresge Sr., and children who were in California.

Kitchen Shower For Home Hit By Aug. Flood

Bartonsville — Friday the thirteenth was not an unlucky day for Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Canfield, of this place, but decidedly otherwise. For on the night of January 13 friends, relatives and neighbors gave the Canfields a complete surprise when they came to their home which had been severely damaged by the August flood, and presented them with many useful gifts for their newly redecorated kitchen. A social time followed.

Refreshments, including a four tier good luck cake presented by Mrs. Donald Hartman were served.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Garris and son Kenny, Mr. and Mrs. James N. Canfield Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Donald Werkheiser and children Gail and Donald, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yoch and daughter Ann Louise, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams and children Eileen and Douglas, Mrs. Donald Hartman, Mrs. Clair Hayden, Mrs. Haviland Heller, Mrs. Russell Williams, Mrs. Roy Schrock, Mrs. Richard Cox, Mrs. Frank Herting, Mrs. James N. Canfield Jr., Mrs. Fred Walters, Mrs. John Allegor, Mrs. George Rusk, Mrs. Daisy Allegor, Kathryn Bush, Emma Dunbar, Wesley Rusk, and the honored couple, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Canfield and daughters Nancy and Sharon.

Those sending gifts but unable to attend were Mrs. Samuel Dunbar, Mrs. Joseph Bush, Mrs. Joseph Dunbar, Mrs. Vernon Wallace, Mrs. Warren Schreck and Mrs. Harold Weidlich.

Jolly Janes Have Meeting At Wallace Home

Bartonsville — Mrs. Vernon Wallace, of King St., Stroudsburg, entertained the members of the Jolly Jane Club of Bartonsville, at her home on Tuesday night, January 10. The time was spent doing various kinds of needlework and having a social time.

Mrs. Richard Cox was the recipient of the hostess prize. Plans were made to meet at the home of Mrs. Fred Walters, of Bartonsville, on the evening of January 24. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Members attending were Mrs. Russell Bond, Mrs. Richard Cox, Mrs. Roy Schreck, Mrs. Haviland Heller, Mrs. Fred Walters, Mrs. Joseph Dunbar, Mrs. Frank Herting, Mrs. Donald Hartman, Mrs. Emma Metzger, Emma Dunbar, Mary Allegor and the hostess Mrs. Wallace.

Young Adults To Organize In Portland

Portland—A group of young people met on Saturday night at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John Wildrick Jr. to make plans for forming a young adult organization in the Methodist Church. Mrs. Bert Transue was in charge. Each one present was given names of young people to contact and invite to an initial meeting Saturday night, Jan. 23, in the Methodist Church social room.

A committee to make plans for that meeting was appointed by Mrs. Transue. The committee appointed was Mrs. Frank Culver, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. James Garofalo, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Delp Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Floyd LaBar.

Those present at the meeting were Rev. James Pain, Dr. and Mrs. John Wildrick, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Transue, Mr. and Mrs. James Garofalo, Lewis Wheeler, Mrs. Floyd LaBar, Mrs. Hiram Delp, Mrs. Frank Culver, Miss Ella Jelinek, Miss Ruth Ervey and Barry Transue.

Historical Program On Thurs. Night

The annual dinner meeting of the Monroe County Historical Society will be held on Thursday night at 6:30 at the Penn-Stroud Hotel, with George Atwell Richardson, of Allentown, as the guest speaker.

His subject will be "When the Blue Mountain Was a Fortified Frontier," dealing with the frontier forts erected in this vicinity during the Indian uprisings 200 years ago.

Other special features will mark the meeting with Roger A. Dunning, president, presenting the address of welcome and outlining the activities of the society. Elston Arnt has been selected to make the gift presentation to the Junior Historians who will be the guests of the senior society.

Special music will be provided by the Chorales of East Stroudsburg High School under the direction of Robert Hartman.

The program committee is headed by Aubrey Vail, chairman; Dr. L. J. Koehler, Miss Ellen Hoffman, Mrs. E. H. Calkins Sr. and Horace G. Walters, who will introduce the speaker.

The dinner meeting is open to anyone interested. The membership of the Historical Society is also open, and a membership drive is being conducted this year for new members.

Mrs. T. F. Rhodes is chairman of the reception committee which includes Mrs. W. Dolby Palmer, Mrs. Roger A. Dunning, Mrs. Elwood Grant, and Mrs. Fred W. Davis.

As she guided the zipper into place, it was very obvious that the dress wouldn't bag at any point. . . in fact, it very amazingly did exactly what it was supposed to do. My waist and the dress's waist met precisely—by what was probably the happiest of coincidences. Not a trace of alteration would be necessary, unless possibly a bit of shortening. With the right jewelry it would be perfect. The lines of the jacket were good too, although the neckline was a bit too wide, a fault that could be remedied by Eva Edson in jig time, as Kathryn vowed, closing in for the kill.

Group To Study Bricker Bill At Open Meeting

The controversial Bricker Amendment, narrowly defeated by the last Congress and now in committee to be presented at this Congress, will be discussed by the International Relations study group of the American Association of University Women at an open meeting on Thursday night at 8 at the home of Mrs. Harold C. Edwards, 9 Club Court.

The program has been arranged by Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. William Creveling, co-chairmen. Arlington W. Williams will give the background and provisions of the Bricker Amendment, and a general discussion will follow.

The meeting is open to anyone interested.

"Want to see me in this?" Doris Hinton queried as she selected a severely plain blue dress with long torso and scoop neckline from the racks. "It's really something right out of 1927 on me."

"Could be," I said, "but you know that dress would be lovely on just the right figure. It's like a dress I had years ago—it looked horrible on the hanger, but when you wore it it was as smart as you could be."

"Yes, that's true," Doris agreed. . . "and it's very often true of some of the most expensive dresses in a store. Take for instance that ninety dollar number—it doesn't look like much on the hanger, but it would be stunning on anyone who could wear it. Just wait until you see me in that!"

Kathryn Long whisked the ninety dollar job from the markdown rack where it is marked 49.50, and Doris disappeared into the fitting room. She emerged a few minutes later, swathed practically to the ankles in heavily curled black wool, smartly severe with just a few folds held in place here and there with short bands of cloth. Had she been six inches taller and maybe six inches bigger around, Doris—who always looks smart—might have looked stunning.

"Why don't you try it, Madalyn?" Kathryn suggested. "Everyone else has—and it's bound to fit someone someday."

Caught up in the same spirit of adventure that sends people looking frantically for a needle in a haystack, I scurried into the dressing room and stepped out of my 1495 charcoal brown. From the adjacent booth Doris waved the black number in my face, and Kathryn dropped it over my head. As she guided the zipper into place, it was very obvious that the dress wouldn't bag at any point. . . in fact, it very amazingly did exactly what it was supposed to do. My waist and the dress's waist met precisely—by what was probably the happiest of coincidences. Not a trace of alteration would be necessary, unless possibly a bit of shortening. With the right jewelry it would be perfect. The lines of the jacket were good too, although the neckline was a bit too wide, a fault that could be remedied by Eva Edson in jig time, as Kathryn vowed, closing in for the kill.

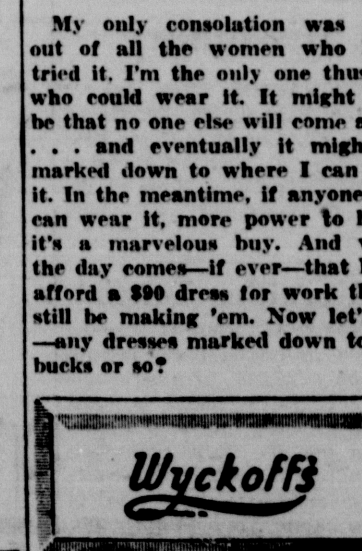

"It's a marvelous buy," she pointed out. "Just feel the fabric. . . and look at the way it's lined. You don't find that styling in a cheap dress. Why you can't afford to let it get away." Doris agreed. (So did I.) "You'd be crazy not to take it," they pursued. "After all, you have to dress well in your job."

They weren't telling me anything my own head hadn't told me before. But my head also knows the state of my budget. . . and it knows too that no one can have everything. At the present time my brown charcoal is much more in keeping with my finances and mode of life. Quite emphatically the "ninety dollar job" went back on the hanger—and thence back to the markdown rack.

My only consolation was this: out of all the women who have tried it, I'm the only one thus far who could wear it. It might well be that no one else will come along. . . and eventually it might be marked down to where I can own it. In the meantime, if anyone else can wear it, more power to her—it's a marvelous buy. And when the day comes—if ever—that I can afford a $90 dress for work they'll still be making 'em. Now let's see—any dresses marked down to five bucks or so?

This Is Year To Buy New Heating Plant

By David G. Bareuther
AP Real Estate Editor

THIS YEAR starts to look like a pretty good time to pick up a new heating plant for your home. Among signs pointing that way are:

1. Heating equipment manufacturers are faced with the prospect of fewer installations in new homes. Fewer new homes are expected to be built. So the manufacturers are exploring the vast home modernizing market. They say they'll try to make this Home Improvement Year a big success.

2. The spreading demand for summer cooling, originally exploited primarily by the circulating warm air industry, has prodded makers of other heating systems into action. Results are that hot water baseboards now offer air conditioning and many electric power companies have changed their tune—they would like to have you try electric heat in winter to balance the loads they have for summer cooling.

Coal Sales Pushed

3. The battle among competitive fuels is getting hot. The Anthracite Institute, for example, is bending every effort to promote the use of automatic stokers and vacuum ash removal equipment in states where hard coal is still the cheapest fuel. In some places power companies are boasting with electricity is competitive with local gas. In other areas homeowners are switching from oil to natural gas. "The use of oil shows a loss during the last five years," says the Mechanical Contractor, official bulletin of the Heating, Piping and Air Conditioning Contractors' Assn.

Electric Heating is making one of the most interesting bids for your business. This form of heat lets you throw your furnace on the dump heap. You need no furnace—no chimney, either. The current issue of House & Home, trade magazine of the building industry, says there are now about 300,000 houses in this country fully heated by electricity and that new installations are running around 40,000 every year.

A leader in the electric heating industry predicts that within eight years "300,000 more homes per year will be heated solely by electricity."

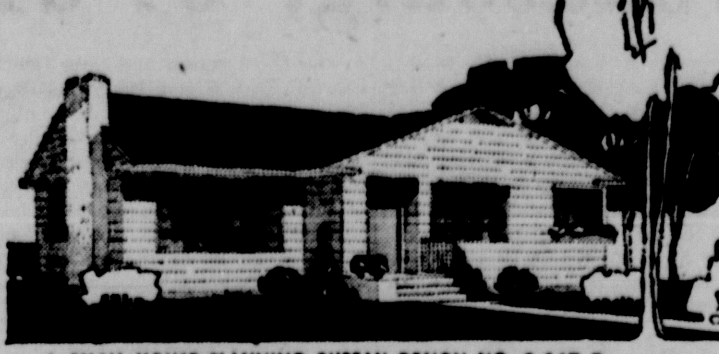

A few years ago power companies dreaded such a trend. The load would be too great. But today, according to a recent survey by the National Electrical Manufacturers Assn., 58 per cent of the utilities, or more than half, favor electric heat for homes and only 16 per cent are hating out against it. The remaining 26 per cent don't care—they're neutral.

1½ Cent Rate

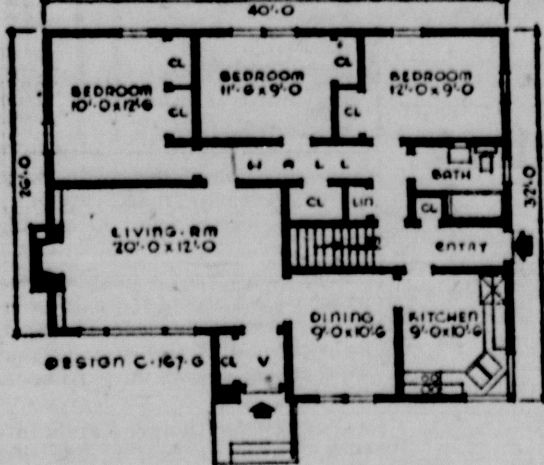

A Midwest power company reports: "We now have a 1½-cent kilowatt heating rate (the rate you need for economy) and we love it." An Indiana utility reports that its 1.7-cent rate makes heat pump operating bills in an average house comparable to local gas bills and 25 per cent lower than for fuel oil.

Commenting on how power companies have changed their song, House & Home says:

"Thousands of new cooling systems connected to utility lines have pushed summer load peaks to record highs. Utilities are finding they must supply substantially more electric power in summer than in winter—25 per cent more in Tulsa, for example. . . Utilities find themselves with idle power generators during the winter, even

Dowelled Frame Provides Short Cut For Panel Door

By AP Newsfeatures

STURDY, NEAT AND attractive cabinet doors are easy to make by inserting a display panel of hardwood plywood in a dowelled frame. This type of door can be made with ordinary hand tools, says the National Lumber Manufacturers Assn.

Sanding Block For Glass Edges

ROUGH EDGES of a sheet of glass can be quickly smoothed and neatly rounded by using a piece of tongue and groove lumber for a sanding block. A 6-inch end of hardwood flooring is handy.

An easy way to do this, according to Practical Builder, trade publication, is to fold a piece of medium fine grade emery cloth over the edge of the glass. Then place the groove of the block over this and fold the paper back on the block to hold it.

By drawing the block back and forth briskly, you can quickly remove the sharp edges of the glass and obtain as much of a bevel or round as you need. It provides a sensible precaution for all glass used for small table tops or shelves.

in the North. They urgently need a new winter load. . .

Even if you are not in the market for a new heating system, you'll be interested in this: No utility company will guarantee operating costs for electric heat without adequate insulation, "at least 3 inches in walls and as much as 6 inches over ceilings."

There you have the key to economy in the use of any kind of fuel—a snug house that will not be trying to heat the sky.

Give Baths Added Utility And Glamor

DESIGNERS lie awake nights thinking up ways to improve bathrooms. And frequently they come up with an idea which adds to the convenience and utility of the room or gives it new glamor and charm.

Some of these features have been listed by the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau for the guidance of prospective builders of new homes as well as for owners of middle-aged homes with vintage bathrooms in need of modernization.

Among the features the bureau recommends are:

Large Lavatories

King-size lavatories. Larger lavatories and bigger countertop surfaces can provide excellent facilities for light laundry, hair washing, and for bathing and dressing the baby.

Jumbo-size medicine cabinets. Provide as large medicine cabinets as possible. Sliding doors are preferred when the cabinets are installed over lavatories.

More storage. Plan for maximum storage space in the bathroom. Install a cabinet with self-contained hamper or use a chute directly to the laundry.

Fixtures In Color

Elongated water closet. When possible, use a water closet with an elongated bowl.

Fixtures in color. They add glamor and charm to the bathroom, creating a strong sales appeal.

Safety features. Grab bars should be used vertically for bathtub and shower and should be located for convenient use. They should be adequate in size and securely installed to sturdy backing or studding. Use non-skid finish for flooring. Install lock on the door which opens automatically from the inside and outside in case of emergency. Locate light switches out of reach of bathtub or shower.

Sound control. Sound transmission can be reduced by the use of acoustical materials on walls and ceilings.

During World War II there was a loss of over 4,000 seagoing ships, together exceeding 20 million gross registered tons.

First make the door frame. Dowel holes are bored 1½ inches deep in each butting piece of the frame, using a No. 6 auger bit. Assemble the frame, using a good furniture glue, and clamp it squarely together until the glue dries. The plywood panel is then cut to fit the opening formed by the frame.

Cut quarter-round molding to fit the edges of the opening, making a miter joint at each corner. Fasten the molding in one face of the frame opening, with ¾-inch brads. Then insert the plywood panel and fasten the molding in the other face of the frame.

Loose Hammers

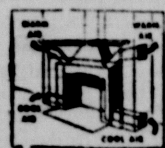

If the wooden handle of your hammer is loose, it can be tightened by soaking the head of the hammer in engine oil overnight. The oil will swell the wood to fit the head again, and will not dry out. Be careful not to soak the entire handle in oil, or it will feel greasy and tend to slip in the hand.

Rubber Tile Can Pep Up Any Battered Old Table

By Vivian Brown
AP Newsfeatures Writer

YOU CAN MAKE AN interesting coffee table or nursery play or breakfast table out of an old-beat up one, by adding a rubber tile top. Put a plain color—turquoise, yellow or gay green on it if you like it in a checkerboard or another design. Or insert a favorite design of your own choosing for an unusual effect.

Do-it-yourself projects are always touted as "easy-does-it." And no matter how simple the idea looks it is well to keep in mind that experimentation demands a stop-and-think-first policy if it is to pay out.

Such is the case if you plan to put a design into your tile-topped table. A pink elephant might be created out of pink rubber tile and inserted into a gray or black rubber tile background for a jolly effect. But you'll need to be accurate to do it. It's a good idea to cut a cardboard stencil of an elephant and place it on top of the pink tile. It should then be cut to shape with a flooring knife, available where the tile is sold. I would place this stencil over the background area where the elephant is to be placed, so that it too might be cut out easily. The elephant could then be slipped into place. He should fit as cozily as a jigsaw puzzle.

Sand old paint off the table first then lay out the rubber tiles and cut to shape. Spread the surface of the table with a rubber flooring adhesive and lay the tiles back in place. Allow them to dry for 24 hours before using the table.

There are other interesting motifs besides pink elephants to be sure. Amateur yachtsmen might prefer sailboats, hunters might want a bird dog to glorify a little table in the den. A teddy bear might be more suitable for the nursery, and young moderns have their own ideas about designs that interest them.

Lock Care

STICKING locks can often be cured by blowing powdered graphite into the latch opening. A handy pressure tube of graphite can be purchased at any hardware store. If the latch sticks against the door frame latch plate, a bit of paste floor wax rubbed on the latch and allowed to dry may lubricate it enough to work easily.

Although the maximum age of golden eagles is unknown, there is evidence that they can live as long as 30 years.

RILEY

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

THIS column comes hard — like pulling teeth. It is actually the third time I've attempted to bring this point to view. But, twice in the past I've postponed it, hoping that the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College basketball team would find itself and play the game of which it is capable. But, after watching the Warriors suffer a 99-58 lacing at the hands of King's College on Monday it was obvious that the time for a few words was long past due.

In opening today's column I wish to give a solid vote of confidence to Coach Jerry Palaia, who has done a fine job of coaching the Normal Hill basketball squads during the past two seasons. Nobody will ever forget the manner in which he led the Warriors to 10 straight wins at the close of last season. He teaches the game calmly and teaches it well. He has given the players all the knowledge necessary, but for some reason the Warriors haven't found the desire.

This ESSTC basketball team is good, don't ever forget that fact. But, it sadly misses a "take charge guy," a fellow like Ray Kaseman or George Heidenreich of last season. Although the Warriors have an abundance of ability, they often look like five guys in a crowded subway — all going a different direction. Their ability suffers and their teamwork disappears without a floor leader.

I've watched most of the ESSTC varsity in high school and I know the three returning members of last year's squad well enough to realize that this is the type club that can never be sold short. It could open a lengthy win streak at any moment. Actually, winning and losing games isn't important. It's the manner in which the task is carried out that counts. The Warriors aren't hustling and they display as "I don't care attitude."

Players who ate, slept and breathed basketball in past years have now relegated the sport to a much lesser position in their lives. This team is composed of men who can shoot, rebound, pass, fake and run, but for some unknown reason they aren't doing any of these necessities even in a half hearted manner. A couple of the players are even laughing at their mistakes, are piling up at an alarming rate. The pile has reached an altitude of five defeats in seven games and may go even higher if construction doesn't come to a halt.

ESSTC isn't famous for its winning basketball teams, but it is well known for scrappy clubs that hang in the battle until the final whistle, a factor that is conspicuous by its absence in recent games played by the Warriors. The tradition of scrappy clubs shouldn't stop here, as the Normal Hill cage machine has all the horses necessary to do the job. The situation isn't alarming in the least, but it is obviously time for the Warriors to take stock of themselves.

I've watched members of the present ESSTC quintet turn into regular Tigers on the backboard in the past. These same players this season are tame cats. Speed and drive are missing, but they can be found in a manner of minutes. The ESSTC contingent appears to be content with the fact that a winning streak is a certainty as soon as Charley German comes back. Actually, the club could have won at least three games it lost with heads up play and this is by admission of the players.

German, last season's outstanding star, will certainly give the team a lift when he returns to school next month. But, the lift will be psychological at first. There is no guarantee that the overweight German will be the same dashing star as last season. He won't be in top playing form, either mentally or physically, and it will take time for him to work into a pattern with many new members of the squad.

In conjunction I wish to compliment Hal Mihalk, former Palmetton High eager, for his fine display of hustle and ability. Mihalk is one guy who still eats and breathes basketball. Otherwise, this reporter joins with hundreds of very disappointed fans in hoping that the ESSTC cage machine can right itself this week and enter the Millersville contest with the same display of spirit and ability as it displayed against West Chester in the second game of the season. I still say that ESSTC is the only club in the Pennsylvania State Teachers Conference capable of up-ending Millersville. But—

Shook Scores 30 Points In Losing Cause

EMMAUS—A brilliant 30-point performance by Doug Shook failed to save Stroudsburg High from its fifth straight Lehigh Valley League basketball defeat of the current campaign last night as Emmaus finished with a rush to gain a 67-63 victory. The contest was played here on the winning club's home boards.

Shook, currently fighting for the scoring leadership in the league, was outstanding in all departments, but his one-man show wasn't quite enough to give the Mountaineers their initial circuit victory of the current campaign.

Although smaller in size, Emmaus took complete control of the contest in the complete half and drove to its second win in five league outings.

Stroudsburg, with Shook setting a crowd pleasing pace, battled to a 21-14 lead after eight minutes of play and into a 36-28 advantage at the halfway mark. The Mountaineers enjoyed a 15-14 advantage during the second round.

But, Emmaus, passed by Dan Sachs, opened the throttle in the third quarter with a 20-17 edge and then battled to victory with a wide 79-50 advantage in the final eight minutes.

Emmaus, featuring a driving offense, split the Stroudsburg defense wide open in the third and fourth quarters to grab the victory.

Sachs finished the contest with 29 points, 12 coming in the first half and 17 in the second. Tom Remington was next in line with 14 counters, six of which were registered in the final period.

Tom Savage and Francis "Sonny" Dieber assisted in the Stroudsburg scoring with 12 and 11 tallies, respectively.

Emmaus had only one more field goal than Stroudsburg, 25-24, but the Hornets converted 17 of 21 foul shots. Stroudsburg found the range on 15 of 22 charity tosses.

Emmaus made clean sweep of last night's program with a 69-23 victory over Stroudsburg in the junior varsity contest.

Stroudsburg returns to the Lehigh Valley League wars on Friday when Lehighton appears on the W. Main St. court.

Coolbaugh Outlasts Chestnuthill

TOBYHANNA — Coolbaugh High's better shooting from the foul line last night enabled the pupils of Coach Don Wismer to maintain their hold on first place in the Monroe County Basketball League with a 33-27 decision over troublesome Chestnuthill. The game was played here on the Coolbaugh court.

The victory was the fifth in six outings for the league leaders, while Chestnuthill has divided the same number of starts. Chestnuthill is the defending title holder in the circuit.

Last night's contest was a defensive battle, with one coach trying to put the damper on the opposition with slow, deliberate basketball.

Both teams were limited to 10 field goals, but Coolbaugh came on to win by converting 13 of 18 charity tosses. Chestnuthill found the range on seven of 16 free throws.

Chestnuthill made good on only 10 of 48 field goal attempts, coach Bill Frear announced after the game.

Coolbaugh, shooting for its first circuit title since 1940, held a 9-4 lead at the end of the first period and a 16-15 edge at halftime, although Chestnuthill ran up an 11-7 edge in the second period.

The host club went on to win with a 9-5 bulge in the third quarter and an 8-7 edge during the last eight minutes of play.

Dave Keiper and Bob Sapp led the Coolbaugh offense with 16 and 11 points, while Earl Everitt and Don Beck each registered eight tallies in a losing cause.

Chestnuthill won the junior varsity battle, 26-12.

Tonsillectomy For Mantle

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Mickey Mantle, centerfielder of the New York Yankees, will undergo a tonsillectomy tomorrow at Lenox Hill Hospital. The operation will be performed by Dr. Ernest Weymuller.

Checkup

Hank Bauer, the Yanks' right-fielder, will be given a routine physical checkup by Dr. Sidney Gaynor, the club physician.

Both Mantle and Bauer are expected to talk over their 1956 contracts with Bill DeWitt, assistant to General Manager George Weiss, during their stay here.

Senators Sign Four Pitchers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Four pitchers today signed contracts for 1956 with the Washington Senators. All are young right-handers who figure prominently in Chuck Dressen's rebuilding plans.

Two are Cubans, Pedro Ramos and Camilo Pascual. Also signing were a pair of youngsters recently acquired from the Boston Red Sox, Thurman Clevenger and Dick Brodowski.

Lakers Tame Hawks

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Minneapolis Lakers made it nine victories in their last 12 starts with a 97-86 triumph over the St. Louis Hawks in a National Basketball Association game played before 5,000 here tonight.

HELLERTOWN — A blistering fourth quarter rally failed to save East Stroudsburg High from dropping into fifth place in the standings of the Lehigh-Northampton Basketball League last night as the Cavaliers dropped a 69-64 decision to Hellertown, here on the latter's home court.

Pocono Shades Barrett To Take Over Number Two Spot

TANNERSVILLE—Pocono High snapped a two-game losing streak and took over sole possession of second place in the Monroe County Basketball League last night with a 59-48 decision over Barrett. A jam-packed crowd watched Pocono overcome a 10-point halftime deficit to win on its home court.

Pocono ran its victory total to four in six circuit tries to take over the runner-up spot behind league leading Coolbaugh. Barrett and Chestnuthill, tied with Pocono prior to last night's action, dropped to a third place deadlock with Polk. Barrett, beaten earlier in the season by this same Pocono crew, rode into a 14-9 lead at the end of the first quarter and followed the high scoring tactics of Charley Harrison and Jerry Cheslock into a 26-16 edge at the halfway mark. Barrett enjoyed a 12-7 scoring bulge in the second period.

Pocono, much to the delight of a large home crowd, began its uphill climb in the third stanza with 14 counters, while Barrett was held to six. The visiting pupils of Coach Joe Murray still carried a two-point lead going into the final eight minutes of play, 32-30.

But, Pocono wasn't to be denied and the pre-season favored charges of Coach Harry Werkheiser broke loose for 29 points, while Barrett had to be content with 16.

The huge crowd went wild with excitement as the shooting of Jim "Sticks" Wagner, Ronnie Martindale and Doug Nelson carried Pocono from the brink of defeat to one of its biggest victories of the current campaign.

Wagner finished as the game's top scorer with 17 points, while Nelson and Martindale followed in that order for the winning club with 16 and 10 markers respectively.

Harrison and Cheslock set the pace for Barrett with 14 and 13 tallies respectively.

Both teams collected 18 field goals, but Pocono connected on 23 of 34 foul shots, including nine for 11 by Wagner. Barrett collected 12 of 21 free throws.

Pocono enjoyed only one point lead with three minutes remaining to be played, but the home team finished with a rush to grab the verdict.

The home town fans had plenty to cheer about as Pocono also won the junior varsity battle of the two schools, 43-26.

Jones Joins Phillies Fold

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18 (AP)—Third baseman Willie (Puddin') Jones signed a 1956 contract with the Philadelphia Phillies to-day, the first Phil to join the fold this year.

Jones reportedly received a salary boost raising him to $11,000.

Knick Trip Royals

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—The New York Knickerbockers paced by substitute Dick Atta, streaked to a 10-point lead midway in the third period tonight and went on to defeat the Rochester Royals 112-107 in an NBA game.

Celtics Down Pistons

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 17 (AP)—The Boston Celtics, with Bob Cousy and Easy Ed McCauley combining for 36 points, defeated the Fort Wayne Pistons 91-85 in a National Basketball Association game here tonight.

Junior High Decisions Leighton

EAST STROUDSBURG Junior High School battled to its third straight favorable basketball decision yesterday with a 37-31 verdict over Leighton Junior High. The game was played on the home floor of the winning squad.

The undefeated host had to battle from behind to earn its second win of the youthful campaign over Leighton.

Leighton led most of the way in yesterday's game and then the lead changed hands several times before the Cavaliers poked their way into a permanent lead.

The Cavaliers will attempt to make it four straight on Friday when they tangle with Middle Smithfield, on the latter's home court.

Stroudsburg Little League To Hold Special Dinner

A DINNER HONORING players in the Stroudsburg Little League will be held at the Monroe County YMCA on Wednesday, February 8. It was decided at a meeting of the Stroudsburg Little League Mothers on Monday, at the YMCA.

McLaughlin Sixth In Scoring Race

JOHNSTOWN, Jan. 17 — Big John Parker of Millersville is the leading scorer in the 14-team Pennsylvania State Teachers College Basketball Conference.

Parker has tallied 53 goals, 22 fouls for 128 points in five games for an average of 26 points per game.

Average Jack Crossan of Indiana and Ernie Hotz of California have a two-point edge on Parker's average with 28 points per contest.

Crossan has tallied 110 points in four games, while Hotz has scored 55 points in two conference games.

East Stroudsburg's Kelly McLaughlin is sixth in the scoring list with 75 points in three games. The big center has picked up 27 field goals and 21 successful foul shots.

Stroudsburg-Poconos at Stroudsburg High. The Poconos are currently a part of a three-way tie for the number one spot in the standings.

Rudy's Tavern, with two wins and a pair of defeats on its slate, will tangle with Pocono Lake on the Tobyhanna Township High court, in Pocono Pines. Pocono Lake has dropped all three of its circuit outings to date.

Kresgeville and Pocono Lake will play on the Tobyhanna Township High court tomorrow at 8 p.m.

The mothers will sponsor the entire project, during which player and team awards will be made.

All 12-year-old boys, having used up their Little League eligibility, will receive special awards.

League officials, managers and umpires will also be invited to the dinner, which is scheduled at 6 p.m.

The Mothers also accepted the project of selling signs on the fence for the second straight year.

A total of 21 Mothers attended the meeting which was ruled over by Mrs. Russell Albertson, president of the organization Jack Mullins, league president, and Ray Walters, vice president, also attended the meeting.

Mrs. James Coleman is chairman of the dinner committee, while Mrs. Ted Price and Mrs. Louis Feller will be in charge of table decorations.

The mothers also plan a fashion show to be held at Stroudsburg High School during the first week in May. Mrs. James Kilson is chairman of the show. Mrs. Price is in charge of ticket sales.

All proceeds from the fashion show will be used to pay for necessary repairs at the Little League field.

Apollo Upsets Field At Hialeah Park

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 17 (P)—Hialeah Park opened the rich middle portion of Miami's thoroughbred racing season today and Maine Chance Farm's Apollo surprised the 23,621 spectators by whipping the 13 other sprint stars in the $27,025 Inaugural Handicap.

Coupled with Hickory Hill and Munchausen in the field, Apollo carried the feathered impost of 106 pounds and sped the six furlongs in 1:10 flat over a fast track to win by a neck.

Second Spring Hill Farms I Appeal was second and W. L. Huntley's Hilarious was a length and a half away in third. Maurice Sims' Blessbull, who won this feature last year in track record time of 1:09 2-5, finished a head back of Hilarious in fourth.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your future. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked numbers give you.

Saddler Puts Featherweight Crown On Line After Setting World Straight On Correct Age

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17 (P)—Featherweight champion Sandy Saddler settled one issue about himself today and figured to take care of another tomorrow when he defends his title against Gabriel (Flash) Elorde in the Cow Palace ring.

The point settled today was Saddler's age. Ring records list him as 29 with a June 25, 1926, birth date. But Saddler said today he was 32, reaffirming a statement he made the other night on a local television program.

"I was born June 25, 1923," he said. "That makes me 32, doesn't it?"

Championship
At issue tomorrow will be the champion's title defense against Elorde, the boss man at his weight in the Orient. The two met at Manila last July 29 with Elorde taking the decision in a non-title 10 rounder, but Saddler never in his long career has lost twice to the same man.

Both fighters took it easy today, but their managers didn't. Both pilots—Charles Johnston for Saddler and Lope Sarreal for Elorde—had loud things to say about the officials for the nationally televised bout.

Johnston said he wanted no part of veteran referee Jack Downey, who had been proposed as the third man in the ring of the California State Athletic Commission.

Downey worked a bout between Saddler and Davey Gallardo here last December and Johnston said he didn't like it.

Sarreal, who in addition to being Elorde's manager also is his father in law, said he would insist that the commission instruct whoever officiates to keep a sharp eye on Saddler.

"I want Saddler told that dirty tactics won't be tolerated," Sarreal said. "The first fight in Manila was a disgrace. Saddler pulled every trick in the book."

Saddler was a top-heavy favorite to retain his title in the bout. The national telecast, with the immediate area blacked out, is scheduled for 10 p.m., EST.

Italians Become Team To Beat In Bobsled Activity

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, Jan. 17 (P)—A battle between the Italians and the underdog Americans for the 1956 Olympic bobsled gold medals began shaping up today.

Favored by colder weather than Cortina has had in some time, bobsledders from 12 nations took their first official trial runs down the 1,700 meter (one mile, 200 yards) track today in preparation for the winter games which start Jan. 26.

Advantage
When the tests were over, everyone knew the Italians were the boys to beat—at least in the two-man event. They have the big advantage of knowing the Cortina run live you know that slippery spot on your front sidewalk.

The squad arrived only last night for the 14-nation pre-Olympic competition among most of the world's best speed skaters.

The eight-man U.S. team, with six veterans from the 1952 Olympic competition in Oslo, is rated strongest in the 500 and 1,500 meter events. The 500 is scheduled tomorrow.

European and Olympic competition, as opposed to the American style, sends competitors off in pairs against the clock. The man with the best time wins. This requires a longer stroke than the choppy ones employed by U.S. skaters. The difference shows up more in the longer races.

The Russian squad, boasting four world record holders, is expected to provide strong competition in all events on the four-day program.

Skating experts here figure it as a race between the United States and Russia in the two short events and among Russia, Sweden and Norway in the two long grinds.

Giants Ink Thompson
NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (P)—The New York Giants announced today they had received the signed contract of veteran third baseman Hank Thompson, 30. No terms were disclosed but it was believed the infielder, whose batting average fell to .245 in 1955, received a slight cut from his $16,000 salary.

American Skaters Test Davos Rink

DAVOS, Switzerland, Jan. 17 (P)—American skaters tested the speedy Davos ice rink today for the first time in preparation for the Swiss international championships opening here tomorrow.

The squad arrived only last night for the 14-nation pre-Olympic competition among most of the world's best speed skaters.

The eight-man U.S. team, with six veterans from the 1952 Olympic competition in Oslo, is rated strongest in the 500 and 1,500 meter events. The 500 is scheduled tomorrow.

President Wins Award
CHICAGO, Jan. 17 (P)—The Golf Writers Assn. of America today named President Eisenhower winner of the Ben Hogan Trophy for 1955.

Annually
The trophy has been awarded annually since 1953 in a poll of the golf writers' membership to the golfer who has proved an inspiration by overcoming a physical ailment or handicap and continuing to play golf.

The award is in honor of Hogan who recovered from a near fatal auto accident in February, 1949, to continue winning major titles.

TED SAYS
We need two (2) salesmen for our new expanding business. You must be conscientious, sincere, willing to study and work hard. You must be able to take responsibility and understand the business. If you are one of those men who must quit working at 5 o'clock—don't answer this ad. For you are out of place as a salesman in the Arctic Circle. If you are out to make a fast buck and don't bother with the problems of others, now—no compensation. You get paid exactly what you are worth. Some people hate to work for so little. If you can qualify, write stating age, past experience and family obligations.

Motors, Steels Lift Market Moderately

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—The stock market made a modest comeback today after its sharp fall of yesterday.

The recovery was moderate and was based chiefly on strength of steels and motors, the two divisions that yesterday weakened and pulled the entire market lower.

Gains of 1 to 2 points were shown today in a number of principal divisions. Losses were usually fractional.

The market as a whole was up 70 cents at $176.90. Yesterday it lost $2.10. The industrial component went ahead $1.00 while rails added 70 cents but the utilities because of several small losers dropped back 20 cents.

There were 1,177 individual issues traded of which 524 advanced and 387 declined with 15 new highs and 7 new lows for the year scored.

Trading came to 2,050,000 shares as compared with 2,260,000 shares yesterday.

The American Stock Exchange was generally higher on volume of 680,000 shares against 820,000 shares yesterday.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U. S. government issues over the counter were firm.

East Borough Democratic Club Elects

CARL WOOLEVER was elected president of the East Stroudsburg Democratic Club at a recent meeting held in Albino's Restaurant.

Other officers are Herman Smeltz Jr., vice president; Michael Cincotta, treasurer; and Bertha Staples, recording secretary.

Some 75 members attended the meeting. Membership is open to any registered Democrat.

Quick Speaks

Willard L. Quick, county commissioner, outlined the "difficult financial condition" the Democratic majority commissioners found county affairs when they took over from a Republican controlled board. John R. Lesoine is the other Democratic commissioner.

Other Democratic office holders attending, besides Mr. Quick, were Floyd Butz, register and recorder; Herman Smeltz Sr., Tom Sexton and Robert Staples of East Stroudsburg council; Clyde Schaller, Clyde Shaffer and James Bunnell of East Stroudsburg school board.

Next meeting of the club will be held Feb. 20 at a place to be announced.

Benjamin Franklin's Frugality Runs Counter To Present Philosophy Of Installment Buying

By Arthur Edson

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The nation's capital, never renowned as a hotbed of frugality, today paid tribute to Benjamin Franklin, who made pennypinching famous.

"I took care," Franklin once wrote, "not only to be in reality industrious and frugal but to avoid all appearances to the contrary."

What a subversive thought for a nation now dedicated to the proposition that it's the length of the new car — and not the 36 payments due — that counts.

Many Sided Franklin

Still, this is the 250th anniversary of the great man's birth, and the Library of Congress has done its best.

Its exhibit stresses Franklin's many sides — printer, inventor, diplomat, scientist, musician, business man, elder statesman — and goes a little easy on his ready maxims for every fiscal occasion.

No one can stroll through the exhibit without being convinced that Franklin must have been one of the most inquisitive men who ever lived.

Most people know he invented bifocals, that he built a new and better stove, that he played around with a kite and lightning.

But he also wrote treatises like "Observations on the Causes and Cure of Smoky Chimneys" and even turned physical education teacher with "The Art of Swimming, a Series of Practical Instructions."

Common Cold

The common cold was a worry then, as now. Franklin investigated and came up with answers about as good as any around today. He recommended exercise, bathing, and temperance in eating and drinking.

While he was in France as this nation's minister, the first balloon flights were made. Naturally Dr. Franklin was there. The exhibit has a copy of a U. S. newspaper in which is printed Franklin's report of the occasion.

"One of the most extraordinary discoveries this age has produced," Franklin wrote, "by which men are enabled to rise in the air, and travel with the wind."

Right off, he foresaw some of the consequences. A nation with 10,000 balloons, he said, would have a big advantage in any future war.

But it was as a Philadelphia printer that Franklin made his name, and that is how he wished to be remembered, as B. Franklin, printer.

Poor Richard's Almanac

Next to the Bible, the almanac was the best read book in those days, so Franklin naturally turned to that field. In addition to the usual weather notes, he filled his almanac with the thrifty sayings of a mythical Poor Richard, who made such observations as:

"When the well's dry they know the worth of water," or

"Creditors are a superstitious set, great observers of set days and times."

These were greatly admired, and probably played a part in forming a national character, sending an agricultural nation early to bed and early to rise.

Whether it also made the nation healthy, wealthy and wise may be open for dispute, but there's no doubt that Franklin profited from Poor Richard's counsel.

In one of the library's exhibits, Franklin the business man cheerfully says of Poor Richard's Almanac:

"I rep'd considerable profit from it, vending annually near ten thousand."

Richard Shuster Assigned To Band

RICHARD J. SHUSTER, of Portland, left by plane recently for San Diego, Cal., where he will be stationed with the U. S. Navy band.

He just completed six months training in the Naval School of Music in Washington, D. C. Shuster graduated from Stroudsburg High in 1954.

Before leaving for San Diego he
